

Greetings:

I am your soul. If you search, you will find me. As you find me, I will help you find Divine Love. As you find Divine Love, it will help you find harmony. As you find harmony, it will help you find God. As you find God, you have found the Endless Friend. And with this Friend you will find Endless Joy filled with happiness, peace and love beyond compare. I want you to have this Joy that I have.

How to Search:

I exist in a certain place inside you. I have always been and have waited long and patiently for you to become aware of me. I am continuously sending gentle love to your mortal mind hoping that it will eventually yield to my promptings. Scan for me. Like tuning a string, search for the place inside you that seems to be active. Like searching a tree for a bird singing high in the branches, scan for me. Like tuning a radio, scan all parts of you until you find something that responds and seems to talk back. I will always respond when you touch me. Find that part of you that responds. That is me. I don't speak, I know. Look for that part of you that responds with something that speaks to your heart without using words. I am waiting to show you my knowings.

To find Divine Love:

I am starved. What can nourish me ? I was well fed before I came here. I have lived since the beginning, so what kept me alive ? Food is for your body, and that will die, but we will go on. I live on Divine Love, which comes from the Source. It is a substance that God will send when you ask for it. And it's a gift to us when you ask. Divine Love is a phrase that starts as simple words. But with earnest prayer, mindful focus, and spiritual cleansing, it gradually starts to grow into something more than words. Divine Love is endless growing: words, to attitudes, to capabilities, to sharings, to oneness. I am both the asker and the receiver. And as I grow, step by step you see me more and more clearly as I become stronger and I start to enliven and enrich both of our lives. Seek for Divine Love. Ask God for it. He welcomes your requests.

To find Harmony:

I am only truth. Knowings are always truth. As I grow, I am gentle, and I respect your free will. I only speak when I am welcomed with a clear longing and a welcoming heart. I am lighter than a feather, yet the mountains are leveled before me. This is the most trying and difficult time for us, but I wait patiently, lovingly, soothingly. I can be strong with God's Love, but you must ask for this gift from God with a true heart, and He shares this willingly. Little by little, as you transform all the mountains and lay them low, you will begin to hear all the trees, and grasses, and flowers, and every cell and every atom sing for joy as they welcome our awareness of them. Step by step we become one with God, and our unique colors and wonderful music harmonizes with gratitude and with all of God's creations.

To find God:

I know and love Him. He knows and loves me. I lived with Him. I was patterned after Him. He joins with me and shares all that I am prepared to receive. Now you know me. Now you love me too. Let me help you learn more of Him. Let me tell you that He already approves and loves you and always has. He only patiently waits for you, and when asked by a true and heartfelt prayer, He immediately sends his warmest divine love to us. My language is Divine Love, and as you learn my language you also learn His. As you speak to me you are learning to speak to Him, and He immediately responds to you. A relationship that may start as a kind of warmth in response to your entreaties, or a vague feeling that answers your questions, grows branch by branch, leaf by leaf into impressions, then into knowings, then into loving communications filled with insights and understandings of who you are, or who He is or anything else you may wish to discuss.

To find the Endless Friend:

You and I are joining. As you yearn for God's love and as you find yourself gifted by Him, you begin to discover the wonder of His gifts and start to realize you are a new You. This new You sees as I see, and because of this love, wants to yield to me. I know of your sacrifice, and I will serve us well as we are reborn anew and your mind coalesces into my mind. You will learn to embrace this change as you learn that we are still we. This change allows us to truly become one with all of our friends. We can look forward to absolute knowing and sharing with our friends. As we walk our path and live and love and embrace each other and God, we rejoice at each other's happiness. God becomes our endless friend as we become endless friends with everyone. We look forward to sharing a full and complete life with all our friends. We then look back at our path and rejoice at seeing the love and guidance that God showered on us each step of the way. Even today as you read this. He is, and I am, Rejoicing !!!

All my Love,

Your Soul
